John was born in Fredericksburg, TX in 1964 before moving to Blanco, TX as a young boy. His grandpa owned a trucking company where his dad and uncles worked driving trucks, so I guess you could say that John has been around the trucking industry his whole life. John said he remembered them hauling livestock for former President Lyndon B. Johnson in Stonewall, TX.

John attended trade school and studied civil engineering, but when his mother got sick he left school and went back to driving a truck which he has done for over 30 years. He purchased his first truck in 1984; a 1981 International. Even though he drives a truck all day everyday John enjoys traveling on his time off. He has been to Cancun and is planning a trip to Jamaica soon.

John is a family man. He has four kids, two of which are grown and enjoys spending time with them when he gets off the road. He enjoys helping people that are in need. "If people ask for help, I help"

John has been an owner operator with Oakley for 19 years, saying "it's like family." Everyone is friendly and helpful. He likes being able to talk to anyone about anything whether it be work related or not. John said that he has seen a lot of changes over the years and learned a lot while leased to Oakley. Most of it coming from one, Roger Carson. Unfortunately he said he would be in trouble with safety if he followed those same rules today.

John represents everything that we are here at Oakley and we are lucky to have him for the past 19 years. There are not too many contractors left that have the same principles as John and we are glad to say he is part of the Oakley family!
